Social Justice Pedagogy Brownbag

Wed, Feb 8 from 12:00-1:00pm in English Building 107A.

Have you been thinking a lot lately about how you can productively engage your students in discussions around issues of diversity and justice? So have we! If you are interested in learning about or joining a teaching-learning community of literacy educators committed to supporting one another in enacting social justice pedagogy, we invite you to this CWS brownbag with the Social Justice Pedagogy Working Group. Through cross-departmental programming, and coalition-building, SJP Working Group aims to collaboratively learn about and build teaching practices that engage our students, and ourselves, in the transformative work of developing personal awareness, understanding structural inequality, embracing difference, and committing to action in pursuit of a more just world. We hope you’ll join us!
